M'KINLEY AT THE PAN

Thousands Gather In the Esplanade to Greet Him.

MANY SOUTH AMERICANS PRESENT.

In His Speech the President Declares That Expositions Are the Time-keepers of Progress and He Commends the Pan-American.

Buffalo, Sept. 5.—President's day at the Pan-American exposition brought a large attendance to the Rainbow City. Business houses and private residences were decorated with flags and bunting and banners were stretched from windows and across streets.

At 10 a. m. the president emerged from the home of Mr. Milburn Mrs. McKinley accompanying him, walking by his side without assistance. Cheers greeted them, which he acknowledged by bowing and raising his hat. Mr. and Mrs. McKinley entered their carriage and with an escort of 20 mounted police and 20 members of the signal corps set out at a brisk trot for the Lincoln Parkway entrance to the exposition grounds, where the president was met by detachments of the United States marines and the sea-coast artillery and other troops. A president's salute of 21 guns was fired.

The president was at once escorted to the stand erected in the esplanade, where the thousands were assembled. In the stand on each side of the president were seated many distinguished men and women, among them representatives of most of the South American republics.

Following are excerpts from the president's address:

Expositions Educate.

Expositions are the timekeepers of progress. They record the world's advancement. They stimulate the energy, enterprise and intellect of the people and quicken human genius. They broaden and brighten the daily life of the people. They open mighty storehouses of information to the student. Every exposition, great or small, has helped to some onward step. Comparison of ideas is always educational and as such instructs the brain and hand of man. Friendly rivalry follows which is the spur to industrial improvement, the inspiration to useful invention and to high endeavor in all departments of human activity. It exacts a study of the wants, comforts and even the whims of the people and recognizes the efficacy of high quality and new prices to win their favors. The question of trade is an incentive to men of business to devise, improve and economize in the cost of production. Business life, whether among ourselves or with other people, is ever a sharp struggle for success. It will be none the less so in the future. Without competition we would be clinging to the clumsy and antiquated process of farming and manufacture and the methods of business long ago, and the twentieth would be no further advanced than the eighteenth century. But though commercial competitors we are, commercial enemies we must not be. The Pan-American exposition has done its work thoroughly, presenting in its exhibits evidences of the highest skill and illustrating the progress of the human family in the western hemisphere. This portion of the earth has no cause for humiliation for the part it has performed in the march of civilization.

International Dependence.

God and man have linked the nations together. No nation can longer be indifferent to any other. And as we are brought more and more in touch with each other the less occasion is there for misunderstanding and the stronger the disposition when we have differences, to adjust them in the court of arbitration, which is the noblest forum for the settlement of international disputes.

We have a vast and intricate business built up through years of toil and struggle, in which every part of the country has its stake, which will not permit of either neglect or of undue selfishness. No narrow, sordid policy will subserve it. The greatest skill and wisdom on the part of the manufacturers and producers will be required to hold and increase it. Our industrial enterprises which have grown to such proportions affect the homes and occupations of the people and the welfare of the country. Our capacity to produce has developed so enormously and our products have so enormously that the problem of more markets requires our urgent and immediate attention. Only a broad and enlightened policy will keep what we have. No other policy will get them.

Reciprocal Trade Relations.

By sensible trade arrangements which will not interrupt our production we shall extend the outlets for our increasing surplus. A system which provides a mutual exchange of commodities, a mutual exchange is manifestly essential to the continued healthful growth of our export trade. We must not repose in fancied security that we can forever sell everything and buy little of nothing. If such a thing were possible, it would not be best for us or for those with whom we deal. We should take from our customers such of their products as we can use without harm to our industries and labor.

Reciprocity is the natural outgrowth of our wonderful industrial development under the domestic policy now firmly established. What we produce beyond our domestic consumption must have a vent abroad. The excess must be relieved through a foreign outlet and we should sell everywhere we can, and buy wherever the buying will enlarge our sales and productions and thereby make a greater demand for home labor. The period of exclusiveness is past. The expansion of our trade and commerce is the pressing problem. Commercial wars are unprofitable. A policy of good will and friendly trade relations will prevent reprisals. Reciprocity treaties are in harmony with the spirit of the times, measures of retaliation are not. If perchance some of our tariffs are no longer needed, for revenue or to encourage and protect our industries at home, why should they not be employed to extend and promote our markets abroad?

Needs of Merchant Marine.

Then, too, we have inadequate steamship service. New lines of steamers have already been put in commission between the Pacific coast of the United States and those of the western coasts of Mexico and Central and South America. These should be followed up with direct steamship lines between the western coast of the United States and South American ports. One of the needs of the times is the direct commercial lines from our vast fields of production to the fields of consumption that we have but barely touched. Next in advantage to having the thing to sell is to have the convenience to carry it to the buyer. We must encourage our merchant marine. We must have more ships. They must be under the American flag, built, manned and owned by Americans. These will not only be profitable in a commercial sense, they will be messengers of peace and amity wherever they go.

Must Build Isthmian Canal.

We must build the isthmus canal, which will unite two oceans and give a straight line of water communication with the western coasts of Central and South America in America and Mexico. The construction of a Pacific cable cannot be longer postponed. In the furtherance of these objects of national interest and concern you are performing an important part. This exposition would have touched the heart of that American statesman whose mind was ever alert and thought ever constant for a larger commerce and a truer fraternity of the republics of the new world. His broad American spirit is felt and manifested here. He needs no identification to an assemblage anywhere, for the name of Blaine is inseparably associated with the Pan-American movement which finds this practical and substantial expression and which we all hope will be firmly advanced by the Pan-American congress that assembles this autumn in the capital of Mexico.

Gentlemen, let us remember that our interest is in concord, not conflict, and that our real eminence rests in the victories of peace, not those of war. We hope that all who are represented here may be moved to higher and nobler effort for their own and the world's good, and that out of this city may come, not only greater commerce and trade for us all, but more essential than these relations of mutual respect, confidence and friendship which will deepen and endure.

COLUMBIA CHOSEN.

She Will Defend the Cup Against the Yacht From Erin.

Newport, R. I., Sept. 5.—The yacht Columbia, champion of 1899, has been chosen to race against Shamrock II, in defence of the America's cup. This decision was reached after a conference lasting two hours between the members of the challenge committee, all of whom were present. Commodore Lewis Cass Ledyard presided.

The discussion was exhaustive. The performances of the two boats were gone over systematically and critically compared. The conclusion was that the behavior of the Columbia was far more consistent than that of the Constitution, and that in the circumstances there was no alternative but to name her as the defender of the cup. It was held that while the decision might be disappointing to the syndicate which owns the Constitution, the committee was compelled to choose the Columbia, whose races have shown none of the erratic form manifested by the Constitution.

John Quinley, saloon keeper at Indianapolis, shot and killed his brother, Michael, who threatened to kill him.

In the exhibition of harness and saddle horses there were several fine rings, the contest for the $35 premium for best saddle horse, mare or gelding being the liveliest. Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 5.—Ex-Secretary of State Caleb Powers, who was hit on the head with a heavy inkstand by Jim Howard in their cell at the jail is improved. The physicians think he is out of danger. The symptoms of concussion have entirely disappeared and the paralysis of the right arm, which developed, is less pronounced. Howard admits he was in the wrong in the matter and expressed great sorrow that he had allowed his temper to get away with him. Howard and Powers quarreled over the division of money for prosecuting their defense in the higher courts. They have been in jail here a year and are under sentence to the penitentiary on conviction of complicity in the assassination of Governor Qoebel.

A SENSATIONAL STORY

Told by Exiled Cigar Makers Who Returned to Florida.

ABDUCTED AT TAMPA AND DEPORTED

Cast Adrift on Barren Island With Scanty Supply of Provisions Where They Suffered Dreadful Hardships and Almost Perished.

Key West, Fla., Sept. 5.—The 13 abducted leaders of the striking cigar makers of Tampa, Fla., have returned from exile. The men who composed the central committee of Resistencia union of Tampa arrived here on a small fruit schooner, the Gertrude, of this port. Marooned on a barren, uninhabited isle off the coast of Honduras, they had, by an unexpected turn of fortune escaped death from exposure and starvation and made their way to civilization and safety. They believe it was the intention of their captors that they should never return from exile.

The authorities at Washington have instructed the United States district attorney at Jacksonville, Fla., to make an investigation of the matter. Sworn depositions of the men taken before federal officials have been mailed to Washington.

Luis Barcia, who was taken at midnight from the bedside of his wife, whose accouchement had taken place three days before, and whose death has since been reported as a result of the shock incident to her husband's disappearance, says he was forced into a closed carriage and taken to the railroad station where he was put into an electric car, on which the lights were out, the current being shut off.

Eight of his comrades who had been similarly treated had been put with himself into the rear compartment of the car and taken to Ballast Point, a few miles west of Tampa, on Hillsborough bay. Four other members of Resistencia union had previously been taken through the woods in a wagon to the same place where a tug with steam up awaited them.

Several of the guards on the car, the men say were prominent citizens of Tampa and well known to them.

After a brief conference at Ballast Point the 13 men were put aboard the tug and the start was made amid desirous farewells from the abductors on the dock. The tug headed for the schooner Marie Cooper, which was riding at anchor in the stream with all sails set. The men were transferred to the schooner under a heavy guard Tuesday night, Aug. 6. A stiff breeze soon carried them down the bay and out to sea. As day followed day without an indication that a landing was contemplated, the kidnaped men, who had been kept in ignorance, not only of their fate, but of their probable destination, became uneasy and requested to know where they were being taken. They were told they would be landed on English soil far enough away to prevent a return to the United States for a long time. The seventh day land was sighted and the captives were informed that their destination had been reached. Nearer approach revealed a long, low stretch of sand beach without sign of human habitation. The men were landed at night, each receiving $5. A box of soda crackers, two hams, three cans of beef and about a gallon of water were placed on the beach. The boats then returned to the schooner, which immediately set sail and disappeared.

Their provisions gave out, the water was exhausted, their hands and faces were burned by the tropical sun and their feet were blistered by long marches. They began to despair of ever reaching home and had almost given up the fight when they were discovered by an Indian. He brought aid, took them to the mainland, guided them to the plantation of a Mr. Bruno, where they were well received. Their immediate wants were supplied and they procured a small boat to take them to Truxillo. At Truxillo they met two Cubans, formerly residents of Florida and now engaged in fruit culture there who supplied funds and hired a schooner to take them to Bonaccio, where they found the Gertrude seeking a cargo of fruit for this market. They chartered her and sailed for Key West.

REPUBLICANS don't care who presides at the trial of the Goebel cases, nor what the political bias of the jury may be so that their men are not found guilty.

JIM HOWARD and Caleb Powers, the Goebel suspects, had a bloody clash in the Frankfort jail Wednesday evening, and Jim came near braining Caleb with an inkstand. They quarreled over some money. It was a lucky thing for Powers that Howard didn't have his gun handy.

CRIPPLE CREEK.

A City With Streets Paved With Gold Ore and With Millions of the Precious Metal Beneath the Surface.

[Correspondence of BULLETIN.]

CRIPPLE CREEK, COLO., Aug. 30th, 1901.

You have doubtless heard at Sunday school of the city whose "streets are paved with gold," but no mention was made of the above city, whose streets are not only paved with the golden ore, but far below the surface millions of tons lie buried, and tens of thousands of human beings are delving away every hour of the twenty-four to resurrect and utilize it. Early this morning Mr. Burbridge (the owner of the "Orphan" and several other noted mines), and I left on the Colorado short line for Cripple Creek, distant forty-five miles from Colorado Springs. The road scales the Cheyenne range of the Rocky Mountains, just west of Pike's peak, and Sir Walter Scott or Bayard Taylor might attempt a description of the scenery but I shall not do so. I can only say that those who have visited the Alps, claim the views here excel anything in Europe. It was a three hours ride through the wonderland of creation, and as soon as we reached this point we entered a tunnel under "Bulls Hill," riding in miners cars, each supplied with candles, and every few hundred yards we crossed the vein of some noted mine, and found men digging the "mill ore" for shipment. Many of the cross cuts were lighted by electricity, and the shafts came down 800 feet from the surface and we returned by elevator, (a large steel bucket). The miners work eight hours each, and there are three sets of them. In this small district there are 80,000 people, all supported and brought here by the find of gold in 1892. The prospect holes on the sides of the mountains are as thick as shocks of fodder in a first-class Kentucky corn field. Thousands of them are paying and tens of thousands are not, as the mineral yields too little gold to pay for milling. All hope that science and time will so improve the machinery that all the mineral can be mined at a profit. In one mine I passed through the crater of an extinct volcano, and the mineral rock for 400 feet was fused into a conglomerate mass with no seams or strata, as hard as flint and almost impossible to penetrate it with drills. They estimated the gold in it at $20,000,000, but said it would cost $15,000,000 to get it out.

I saw the place where millionaire Strong was killed and the man who killed him. He is out on $50,000 bail. Nothing small about these people. Electric cars take you all over this mining district, and it is composed of six or eight towns and cities—Victor and Cripple Creek having about 20,000 inhabitants each. Fort Hill was a mass of mining buildings; it is the place where the striking miners fortified against the State and U. S. soldiers, and used stove pipes to represent cannon, and held the troops at bay until the State sent its artillery there. The district is about the size of the Washington precinct, and the gold in sight, as developed by the tunnel, drifts, prospects, &c., runs into the billions. Mr. Burbridge introduced me to a dozen men—who could command from one to ten million, but I could not distinguish them from the average citizen. I met a brother of General Marmaduke and a nephew of Jefferson Davis, both wealthy mine owners, at "The Antlers." Mr. Winfield Scott is staying there. He gave me a description of his Texas and Mexican cattle ranches and said he owned a thousand sections in the Pan Handle of Texas (64,000 acres), and also a tract in Mexico eighty miles by 100 miles, and that he usually had 50,000 cattle on the range, so it seems that all the millionaires are not in the East. Tell Mr. Rosser there is a widow of thirty-five at "The Antlers" who has $5,000,000.

With all I have seen I still think old Mason and Kentucky the best county and State in the union. The lawyers were all here on Thursday, the scientists to-day, the "labor men" have Monday and the Episcopals Tuesday. It is the storm centre for all excursionists.

ASTONISHED THE EDITOR.

Editor S. A. Brown, of Bennettsville, S. C., was once immensely surprised "Through long suffering from dyspepsia," he writes, "my wife was greatly run down. She had no strength or vigor and suffered great distress from her stomach, but she tried Electric Bitters, which helped her at once, and, after using four bottles, she is entirely well,—can eat anything. It's a great tonic, and its gentle laxative qualities are splendid for torpid liver." For indigestion, loss of appetite, stomach and liver troubles it's a positive, guaranteed cure. Only 50c. at J. ## MORE MEN AT WORK.

Further Breaks In the Ranks of the Striking Steel Workers.

THE STRIKERS LOOK ON IN SILENCE.

Latest Terms of Settlement Proposed by President Schwab of the Steel Corporation Would Decimate Ranks of the Amalgamated.

Pittsburg, Sept. 5.—Further breaks in the ranks of the striking steel workers occurred at McKeesport, where 500 men, or 100 more than Wednesday, went to work at the National Tube company's plant, and nearly 100 men reported for duty at the Demmler Tin Plate works which was to resume under protection of deputy sheriffs. A start was not made during the early hours of the day, however, but everything was in readiness for resumption.

There was no disorder, although quite a crowd of strikers was in the vicinity of the plant. At the Boston rolling mill a force of men was at work preparing the plant for work.

Probable early peace is again being discussed here as the result of the conference in New York, between President C. M. Schwab of United States Steel corporation and members of the National Civic Federation. Hope was revived that the meeting might result in something tangible on which to base a settlement proposition, and disappointment was general over the failure to reach an agreement.

The proposition from Mr. Schwab, said to have been submitted to President Shaffer of the Amalgamated association, through President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, virtually demands a concession of the Clark, Painter, Lindsay and McCutcheon and Monessen hoop mills. These plants were non-union when the strike started and all are now running partially or in full. The association would also lose by the acceptance of the proposition the Crescent tin plate plant at Cleveland, the Star Tin plate works in this city, the Canal Dover mills and the works at Demmler. These have been union for a long time. The tube plants at McKeesport in this city and at Benwood, W. Va., would also be exempted. The acceptance of the terms, it is said, would reduce the strength of the Amalgamated association nearly 50 per cent.

Five members of the advisory board of the Amalgamated association went into session at Amalgamated headquarters it is said for the purpose of discussing the proposition received regarding a settlement of the strike. There were present President T. J. Shaffer, Secretary John Williams, Business Manager Benjamin I. Davis, Assistant Secretary M. F. Tighe and Trustee John Pierce. The absentees were Trustees John H. Morgan and Elias Jenkins. Morgan is in Niles, O., at work and Jenkins is at Youngstown. Trustee Pierce said the officials could not agree to the proposition submitted by the corporation.

To Save Her Child

From frightful disfigurement Mrs. Nanine Galleger, of LaGrange, Ga., applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve to great sores on her head and face, and writes its quick cure exceeded all her hopes. It works wonders in sores, bruises, skin eruptions, cuts, burns, scalds and piles. 25c. Cure guaranteed by J. Jas. Wood & Son, druggists.

William F. Boone, of Adams County, O., and Miss Eomi Tomlin, of Murphysville, were married Thursday.

You want to be right up in G if you are an Elk, and get one of those handsome pins and charms on sale at Ballenger's. Great variety, ranging from $1 to $80.

Akron, O., Sept. 5.—Poor Director Joseph Kendall, after a severe experience with a 16-year-old boy who beat his mother, Mrs. Mary Dumphy, because she would not share with him the provisions the city poor department sent her, most seriously asserts that undutiful children should be killed. He is willing to circulate a petition asking that the legislature provide a law to make it a capital offense for a child of mature years to commit an assault upon a parent.

Columbia, S. C., Sept. 5.—Frank C. Lechnor, cashier of the Bank of Timmons ville, suddenly disappeared from Timmons ville, S. C., a short while ago for reasons unknown at the time. Since then an examination of the bank's accounts shows a shortage of $5,000, which, it is feared, may increase as the investigation continues. Lechnor was bonded in a surety company for $10,000, and the directors of the bank say that neither the creditors nor the standing of the bank will be impaired. Lechnor has left no clue to his whereabouts.

THE ELKS DANCE.

The Assembly Hall in Convent Building
Scene of a Brilliant Entertainment
Last Evening.

The Elks dance last evening was a charming and delightful entertainment. The convent hall is an ideal place for entertaining. It is large, light and well ventilated, while the basement provides excellent accommodations for dining purposes and the intermediate stories afford ample space for dressing and sitting rooms.

Last night under charge of the ladies of the Episcopal Church the basement was tastefully and attractively arranged, and a very dainty luncheon was served during intermission.

The First Regiment Band was enthusiastically received. This musical organization is a most carefully drilled and well balanced one, and the numbers last night were perfectly rendered under the leadership of Professor George Smith.

The girls were all daintily attired, quite a large number of very effective and artistic gowns having been noted, while among the patronesses were seen many very handsome evening toilettes.

It is estimated that there were fully 150 present, the visiting guests alone being too numerous to enable one to obtain a complete list.

Postum coffee—Calhoun's.

Private School.

Miss Nannie Cartmell, assisted by Miss Jessie Yancey, will reopen her school for girls and boys Monday, September 9th. For terms and other information apply at No. 107 West Fourth street.

The list of premiums in the poultry department will be published to-morrow, having been received too late for to-day's issue.

An electric car ran over a large shepherd dog last evening on Second street, just east of Sutton, and killed him instantly.

Positively the best cut yellow poplar shingles on earth. Samples at R. A. Carr's and Limestone Mill, Maysville. Address, D. G. Wilson, Orangeburg, Ky.

Dr. Basil C. Duke Chapter, U. D. C., will meet Monday morning, September 9th, at 10 o'clock, in the New Public Library.

Mrs. T. J. Chenoweth, President.

G. W. Rogers & Co., No. 127 Market street, Maysville, is the place to get pure, straight two-stamp "guaranteed" whiskies, brandies and gins, California wines &c. No spirits or rectified goods sold. Best $2 whisky on earth.

The Knights of St. John Cadets entertained last evening at Neptune Hall. The guests gathered at 9 o'clock and the dancing was continued until 3 this morning. The popular Maysville Orchestra furnished music for the occasion and the evening was a successful and enjoyable one.

If it is not sold privately beforehand, I will offer at public auction September 19th, at 2 p. m., the farm of the late Mrs. Eliza Long, containing 120 acres, on Strode's Run pike and L. and N. railroad near Clark's Station. For particulars address Dr. L. H. Long, agent for heirs, North Fork, Ky.

O. H. P. Thomas & Co., Nos. 120 to 124 Market street, Maysville, Ky., sell Old Time Bourbon and Maysville Club Rye, direct from the distillery, by the quart, gallon or barrel; the finest in the State; guaranteed pure and as represented as to age.

THE H. E. POGUE DISTILLERY CO.

Lee May, charged with horse stealing, was given a hearing in the Police Court and held in the sum of $500. His home is in Bath County. He stole the horse at Ewing, a saddle and bridle at Maysville and a bicycle at Washington. Charles Tally, owner of the saddle, followed him to Maysville and arrested him, turning him over to Policeman Newell.

DEATH'S HARVEST.

Final Summons Comes To Mrs. Nancy Hamer of This City, Mrs. Louisa Watson, of Shannon, and Mrs. Martha Best of Dover.

Smith of the Church of the Nativity officiating. Burial at Charter Oak Cemetery, Aberdeen. Mrs. Hamer's death occurred Wednesday evening. Smith, of this city, Mrs. William Riggs, Thomas and Samuel Hamer, of Aberdeen and Amos Hamer, of Manchester. Mrs. Hamer was a devout member of the Church of the Nativity, and was one of the city's noble-hearted Christian women.

MRS. LOUISA WATSON.

Mrs. Louisa Watson, aged seventy-eight years, died Thursday evening at her home near Shannon. The funeral will take place at Shannon Saturday at 11 a. m., sun time, Rev. P. J. Ross officiating. Mrs. Watson was the widow of the late Samuel Watson, and is survived by two daughters.

Monday night will be ladies night, when a lady will be able to secure the best seat for 15 cents before 6 p. m. Concerning this company the following press clipping is given:

A very large audience greeted the opening performance of the Spooner Dramatic Company at the Walnut street theater last night in "The Pearl of Savoy."

Judging from the applause that greeted the performers frequently during the evening it was evident that the large audience was well satisfied with the evening's amusement provided.

The talented members of the company justified the press reports which have been received in advance of their visit in presentation of the popular pastoral play, which carries many difficult and complicated positions.

Miss Allie Spooner in her interpretation of the title role, by her clever and bright acting, graceful movements and pleasing voice, established a favorable reputation, as did also Mr. F. E. Spooner, of "Pierrot." This was particularly exemplified in the drinking scene in the third. The other members of the company acquitted themselves well.
